

Urban Farming... FREE Workshop

Are you interested in learning more about:
Edible Trees and Permaculture Techniques?

Here is your chance to attend a free workshop.

Date: Saturday, June 24, 2017

Time: 9 AM – Noon

Location: Desbrisay Community Gardens

For more information contact the City of Charlottetown at: 902 629-4122 or email bhoar@charlottetown.ca

Brought to you in partnership by:

Tree Canada: Edible Trees Fund, FedEx, Desbrisay Community Gardens and
The City of Charlottetown

Permaculture Workshop by Adam MacLean

- Adam MacLean will be leading this workshop. He is the co-creator of the Legacy Community Garden and is passionate about food production.

The workshop will explore creating a diverse edible landscape. We will learn how to incorporate fruit and nut trees, berry bushes and perennials into a lower-maintenance, edible landscape using applied ecology and permaculture design. The workshop will also include an introduction to permaculture ethics and design principles that can guide you in creating your own edible landscape.

This is a practical hands-on workshop so come prepared to learn while doing 😊.

